Complete Inventory of Plant, With Maps Showing Mains, to Be Made for Board.

At the conference that was held Friday afternoon between E. L. Street, general manager of the water company, and the board of public works, permission was given by Mr. Street to the two engineers hired by the board to make a thorough examination of all the property of the company.

Mr. Phillips and Mr. McDonald, the two engineers, with Mr. Street, examined the engine room of the plant Friday afternoon, and Mr. McDonald examined today some of the company's mains. Mr. Phillips returned to St. Louis Friday evening, but will return Monday and will commence work then.

As soon as the engineers are through gathering data they will make out their report to the board. It is thought that the report will be ready in two weeks' time, and as soon as it is received the board will be ready to take some action or do business with the water company.

Death of a Bolckow Man.

Frank Debord, 54 years old, a prominent stockman whose home was near Bolckow, Mo., and said to be one of the largest land owners in Andrew county, died at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at a local hospital. Death followed an operation for appendicitis, from which he had suffered for three weeks. His wife and daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. Carl C. Elmsinger, and her husband, were at his bedside when the end came. The body was taken to Bolckow this morning.

Mr. Debord was a member of the old William H. Debord family, well known in Andrew county for sixty years. His father, William Debord, was at one time state senator and prominent in politics. It is estimated that Debord leaves an estate valued at more than $100,000, including much fine live stock.—St. Joseph News-Press.

LED BY THE LADIES

FRATERNAL PARADE WAS GREAT CREDIT TO ORGANIZATIONS.

SATURDAY CROWD BIG ONE

Thousands Throng Streets to See Children's Parade and Fair Attractions.

This Evening's Program.

7:00—Flying Bickets, Fourth, between Main and Market.

7:15—Price and Elsberry in their wonderful acrobatic acts, Third and Market.

7:30—Rosards in their iron jaw and ring act, Fifth and Main.

9:30—McCoys at Second and Main. At 9 o'clock the carnival night will commence. Order is to be maintained. Confetti will be sold then and a general good time will be had.

The fraternal parade Friday night was the principal feature of the day, and was in every way a credit to the organizations taking part. The parade started at 8 o'clock from St. Patrick's church and marched through the business streets.

The Maryville band headed the procession and was charmingly escorted by the Maryville Ladies' Military band.

This was the first appearance of the ladies' band, and they certainly deserved all the million compliments they received. They looked as lovely as a bunch of three dozen American Beauty roses, in their white dresses, red sweaters and white hats. So there now, girls! We mean every word of it.

The drill team of the Woodmen of the World came next, under command of Lieutenant Phipps, and they sure had the proper military look. The fact that they had been honored with a place as escort to the ladies' band was the right thing for a good looking bunch like they are.

The Woodmen and Woodmen Circle floats followed, containing the officers of those lodges, and the Sovereigns marched behind. Both floats were handsomely decorated in their lodge colors and the street fair colors. The officers of the Woodmen are Roy Martin, consul commander; D. T. Littler, advisor lieutenant; R. F. Wallace, banker; John W. Airy, clerk; Pearl Edwards, escort; J. L. O'Grady, watchman; W. B. Blatchley, sentry; D. F. Mitchell, Frank Martin and R. A. Strawbridge, managers. The officers of the Circle are Mrs. M. A. Turner, guardian; Mrs. Frank Martin, advisor; Mrs. Roy Martin, secretary; Miss Dora Allen, attendant.

A big delegation of Elks came next, and the goat was taken along for an outing. He seemed to have an aversion for a big mixed crowd, and had to be coaxed and petted into marching. Henry Wilson had charge of the goat.

The Owls lodge came next, preceded by a beautiful float, in which were nine little girls, Mildred Avitt, Edith Grundy, LaCreta Smith, Orvetta Smith, Marie Alden, Irene Maxwell, Celia Martin, Leona Littler and Venice Bratcher, all "daughters of Owls." A large delegation of Owls ended the procession, headed by the lodge officers: Berney Harris, president; Dr. N. W. Templeton, vice president; John Hanson, secretary; George B. Baker, treasurer; B. W. Lemon, invocator; Frank McClain, warden; Glover Kelley and Charles Hefflin, sentinels.

The parade was witnessed by the largest night crowd of the fair, and everyone praised the efforts of the five hundred who had a part in it.

At the close of the parade the Maryville Ladies' Military band played their first piece in public at the entrance to the Mead Alabama minstrel show at Third and Buchanan streets. Not one of its members had stage fright, although the band has had but three practices. Everybody was delighted with their playing, and when they give their first concert, in a month or two we predict it will be the hit of the season. The title of the piece they played, a waltz, was very appropriate, as it is named "Chinky-Chonky Waltz" by McCoy.

Saturday morning the program opened with a fine band concert before the largest crowd that has yet gathered in the morning. The people were pouring into the city from every direction, and morning trains brought in hundreds. By 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the crowd had swelled to thousands to witness the children's parade, and it is the largest of any during the week.

Saturday bids fair to end gloriously

and with an immense crowd, as the weather is perfect.

As The Democrat-Forum went to press at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the children's parade was being formed at the Empire theater, and it proved the most popular of any event of the week. A full account will be given in Monday's paper.

The carnival night opens at 9 o'clock tonight and will continue until 12 o'clock.

ONE OF THE FIRST MEN THERE.

R. G. Brummitt Tells of the Drowning of Jabe Dean.

R. G. Brummitt of near Skidmore was in Maryville Saturday taking in the street fair. Mr. Brummitt was one of the first men at the Dean home, near Quitman, Friday morning. He says Jabe Dean, the man who was drowned Thursday night in Sand creek, near Quitman, and his brother Joseph Dean, were attempting to cross the creek to see if it was safe to take their families across, as the water was running around the Dean house and was commencing to go into the house. When they arrived near the creek, the water was running over the road, and on going a little farther the wagon box was carried away by the swift current, and Joseph Dean jumped out and caught hold of a tree, while Jabe Dean attempted to wade across a draw near the creek. The last that Joseph Dean saw of him was when he was attempting to wade to the opposite bank.

The body of Jabe Dean was found about a half mile south of where he was wading, about 8 o'clock Friday morning. Joseph Dean was rescued about 4 o'clock Friday morning.

As the Dean family is in destitute circumstances, $50 was raised Friday morning, and $75 was raised here in Maryville for the family.

The funeral services will be held today and burial will take place in the cemetery at Quitman.

She is gaining strength rapidly and will soon be as well as ever.

CHINESE CAPITAL IS THREATENED

Revolution is Growing Rapidly and
Troops Are Joining Everywhere.

REBELS RESPECT ALL TREATIES

Massacre Reported at Hankow and
all Business is Suspended—
American Consul Enters
Wu Chang.

Peking, Oct. 14.—China today faces an unprecedented crisis. With the spread of revolutionary activity, the opinion is gaining ground that the fate of the ruling dynasty hangs in the balance.

The revolution is no longer confined to the central provinces. 1,000 miles away from the capital, Peking itself is threatened.

Members of the cabinet admit that the garrison here is known to be honeycombed with revolutionary sentiment. The same condition exists in the two great military posts which guard the capital, Pao Ting Fu and Tien Tsin.

There are still official attempts to minimize the gravity of the situation, but the reports reaching the capital give little basis for hope.

Every effort of the authorities for the present will be centered in an attempt to provide adequate defense for the capital of the empire. The sixth division of the army was ordered to entrain immediately for Fong Tai, a suburb of Peking.

The revolutionists have informed the consuls at Hankow that they will respect all treaties and loans and indemnities contracted by the Chinese government.

Hankow, Oct. 14.—The rebels have been unable to maintain order and business has been completely suspended here and at Han-Yang and Wu Chang. The working classes are without employment and are attempting to plunder. Fully 500,000 persons have fled to the country side.

There was a massacre of Manchu families which left large numbers of dead, and to add to the danger all the prisons were opened and the inmates released to wander about the town.

The revolutionary organization is making every effort to restore order and it is announced that rioters, wherever caught, will be severely dealt with.

The American consul general, Roger S. Greene, crossed the Yang Tse river to Wu Chang, accompanied by the commander of the American gunboat Helena, and two Chinese interpreters. The party went unarmed and entered the gates of the city after they had been opened for a squad of rebel artillery to pass out.

Inspector R. S. Brauer took Brainerd to Leavenworth and his case will be taken before the federal grand jury, now in session.

Brainerd has a wife and two children, one a girl only 5 days old. Mrs. Brainerd has not been told of her husband's arrest. Brainerd was regarded as the most efficient clerk in the local office.

Farmer Accidentally Killed.

Burlington, Kan., Oct. 14.—George Metzger, a farmer southwest of Burlington, was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun he was pulling from a wagon load of corn. He lived only long enough to say good-by to his wife and sister-in-law.

HYDE DEFENSE SPRINGS COUP

DEMANDS RIGHT TO INSPECT
VISCERA.

Chicago Chemists Ignore Demand and Attorneys Ask Court Order
on Question.

Kansas City, Oct. 14.—An unexpected coup has been sprung on the state's attorneys in the Hyde case. While the lawyers here were arguing the motion for elisors, three representatives of Doctor Hyde called upon Dr. Walter Haines and Dr. Ludwig Hektoen, the Swope scientists, in Chicago and demanded the right to inspect the portions of the viscera yet in their possession.

The three men who made the demands upon the chemists are: R. R. Brewster, one of the physician's counselors; Dr. Walter Cross, city chemist, and Dr. E. E. Smith of New York City. Doctor Smith is a professor in Fordham university and was Doctor Hyde's leading medical witness at the first trial.

Frank P. Walsh made the first announcement of the demand to be made of the Swope experts. When Judge Porterfield adjourned the hearing on the elisors, that he might take up his work as juvenile judge, Mr. Walsh rose from his chair.

"One minute, please," he said, "I've got a motion here that must be heard at once."

The state's attorneys who had begun to leave the courtroom turned. Mr. Walsh handed J. A. Reed a copy of the motion and then began to read it to the court. It was a request of the court for an order instructing the Swope scientists to permit the medical experts employed by Doctor Hyde to inspect the viscera under such rules as the court should make.

"The state certainly shall resist any efforts of Hyde's representatives to obtain the state's evidence," Reed said. "The state will ask a hearing on the motion."

Judge Porterfield said he would hear the application for the order immediately upon the conclusion of the application for elisors. It undoubtedly will precipitate as bitter a legal clash as the motion for the elisors.

ROBBERS GOT PAY ENVELOPES

Postoffice at Mulberry, Kan., Loses
Registered Package Containing $10,000.

Pittsburg, Kan., Oct. 14.—The postoffice at Mulberry, 15 miles northeast of here, has been robbed. It is reported that one registered package contained $10,000 belonging to the Sheridan Coal company, sent here to pay off the miners at four of the mines. Postmaster Kurtz refuses to say anything about the matter. Officials of the coal company also refuse to deny or confirm the report that one of the packages contained the money for the miners.

It is believed by the officials that the robbery was the work of professional robbers who knew of the coming of the money for payday. Several robberies of similar nature have occurred in the mining fields the last two or three years.

Effort Being Made for Creation of
New Department With Pure

Washington, Oct. 14.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley still is the center of contention, but the present agitation seems likely to elevate him in rank in the government service. Secretary Wilson is urging that Doctor Wiley and the enforcement of the Pure Food law be removed from his department and that the latter be placed at the head of the public health and marine hospital service.

Friends of Doctor Wiley are making concerted effort for the creation of a new cabinet department of public health, with the expectation that he be placed at its head.

Have Bearing on Plan
Adopted.

New York, Oct. 14.—The telegraphic tentacles of "26" Broadway far flung over the country are responsible for the presence in New York of more oil men than ever assembled before. In all the first class hotels officials of the trust's 19 subsidiaries are quartered. The elevators at "26" transport men long in the Rockefeller service and foreign agents summoned to attend the most important industrial powwow ever held in this city.

The Standard's legal force is busy with two great problems—first, the dissolution of the trust; second, the impending decision of the interstate commerce commission as to legal status of the pipe line trust controlled by the Standard. If that decision shall, as expected, be that pipe lines are common carriers, the Standard will be compelled to open its lines to the independent oil dealers in Oklahoma, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Texas and other states where it now prevents competition.

It is with the first problem chiefly that the masters and hired men of the Standard are now struggling. No information can be obtained from the executive officials of the company illustrative of the plan which must be adopted by November 15. But some men of lesser degree who are in daily conference with the heads of the departments have a fairly definite idea of the nature of three methods of complying with the law now under consideration.

All of these plans are ready to be submitted to the directors of the Standard.

There was a fourth plan, which, it is said, was rejected as soon as proposed. This was to dispose of the control of the majority stock interest in each of the subsidiary companies to foreign holders. The mission of William Rockefeller to London, was believed to have some relation to this plan.

BOUGHT TWO KANSAS RAILROADS

New Move by Hawley Interests Said
to be Most Important to Southwest.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 14.—The Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway has bought from J. A. Kemp and Frank Kell of this place, and associates, the Wichita Falls & Northwestern and the Wichita Falls and Southern railways. These roads have about 450 miles of track.

The purchase of this system of roads by the Hawley interests is one of the most important railway transactions that has taken place in the Southwest for a long time.

It is said to be the plan of the M. K. & T. to extend the Wichita Falls line to Liberal, Kan., thence to Denver. Construction has been in progress on that extension for some time. The route between Liberal and Pueblo, Col., is through a region that is greatly in need of a railroad.

Katy Refuses Demands.

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 14.—W. A. Durham, assistant general manager of the M. K. & T. railway has refused to accede to the demands of the 1,500 car men on the system who have been on a strike since September 23, and their case has been appealed to A. A. Allen, president of the company. The strikers say there is no change in the situation along the entire system.

May Take Myers to Fresno.

Jefferson City, Oct. 14.—Gov. Hadley heard the extradition proceedings of J. P. Myers of Kansas City, who is wanted at Fresno, Cal., on a charge of embezzlement and took the matter under advisement. The requisition by the California authorities was resisted by Myers.

Deadlock in McNamara Trial.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—After two days of court session in the trial of J. B. McNamara no juror had been selected even tentatively and no decision had been reached as to the eligibility of the first salesman examined.

Hazers Dismissed.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 14.—Two sophomores were dismissed from the University of Illinois for hazing freshmen. They were implicated in recent episodes near the college campus, where freshmen were subjected to various indignities.

Mrs. Pankhurst to Kansas.

Topeka, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English suffragist, is coming to help the Kansas women in their fight for votes. The Kansas Equal Suffrage association is arranging for as many speaking dates in Kansas as Mrs. Pankhurst can give.

Communication

Christian Peace League.

The Maryville Pastors' Alliance, at the last meeting, passed a resolution endorsing the Christian Herald Peace League, recently inaugurated in New York City. They resolved themselves into a committee of the whole to investigate and report the practicability of organizing a Peace Circle in Maryville at their next regular meeting.

The league is composed of branches called Peace Circles in every town and locality where they can be formed—all being under the jurisdiction of the parent organization in New York, which is headquarters of the movement.

The object of the movement, which is that all good citizens of either sex who sincerely wish to aid in advancing international and national peace and arbitration, the higher patriotism, etc., may be able to do so on practical lines.

The effort to organize Peace Circles in every community and home has met with unprecedented response from intelligent sympathizers throughout the country. The Christian Peace League is at present the most inspiring organization of its kind in the world. No more practical or ideal agency for the propagation or spreading of peace principles exists.

The Peace League is interdenominational and politically non-partisan. Unlike the W. C. T. U. and most other civic and reform societies, it has no sex distinctions. Anyone over 12 years old of either sex can become a member.

It is not exclusive. Its sole object being the spread of anti-war principles and civic righteousness taught by Jesus Christ, therefore anyone who endorses these can become a member, whether he be Christian or not.

The Bible says, "From whence come wars and fightings among you? Come they not hence, even of your lusts that war in your members?"

A great general in our civil war said, "War is hell." I never heard of any one disputing it, especially no soldier who has been on the firing line.

Where there is hell there is a devil at the bottom kindling the fire and keeping it burning.

When Christ was maliciously indicted for a capital crime and Malchus was sent with others to arrest him, intrepid, stalwart St. Peter decided to precipitate, and drag Christ and his disciples into what he conceived to be a holy war by decapitating this government official by a mighty fell stroke with his sword. Malchus dodged and Peter's glancing stroke cut off his ear. Jesus touched his ear and restored it to as perfect soundness as though it never had been hurt. And Jesus rebuked Peter's belligerent spirit saying, "Put up again thy sword into its place, for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Jesus, with the non-resisting meekness of "a lamb brought to the slaughter," submitted to the nefarious trial, condemnation and execution on the cross.

He endured this to give "the law going forth out of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem" new gracious power from heaven that it could not have without His death and resurrection.

Then Jesus became "the Word made flesh" and "the truth which alone can make men free indeed" and mighty before God to the casting down of strongholds, casting down imaginations and every high thing that is exalted against the knowledge of God and bringing every thought into captivity to the obedience of Christ, "casting the prince of this world out" and enthroning himself the Prince of Peace and King on earth as he is King in heaven.

"Then swords shall be beat into plowshares, and spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make him afraid; for the mouth of Jehovah of hosts hath spoken it."

The movement is not second in importance to the war against the liquor traffic.

"The work of Peace Circles is conducted in harmony with the principles advocated by the peace congress which recently met in Baltimore."

They are conducted economically. There is initiation free. "Whatever small funds may be needed (for stamps, etc.) may be raised either by a collection or by a system of ten-cent dues."

"Literature of the peace movement, prepared by the national society, will be furnished to the secretaries for use in the circles free. Postage, however, should be sent to defray cost of transmission by mail." Its advantages are therefore mainly without money and without price.

We trust everybody will hold up the hands of our Pastors' Alliance by attending when they call a mass meeting to give patriotic philanthropists an opportunity to volunteer under this Immanuel peace banner. Join the army and "fall in" when they bid us forward march against Amalekite militarism.

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

By Common Garden Sage, a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling, Faded, Gray Hair.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of 75, while our mothers have white hair before they are 50. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy, and gradually restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days, on account of souring quickly. This objection has been overcome, and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair, but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow.

Get a bottle from your druggist today. Use it and see for yourself how quickly dandruff goes and gray hairs vanish.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agents, Koch Pharmacy.

CHAPTER III. THE GRANGER CASE.

THE new secretary, equally astonished, put her fingers to her lips, commanding silence, and Mrs. Mason widened the distance abruptly as Craven, at the slight noise, turned from the window.

"I'm Craven, Mr. Temple's legal adviser," he said. "I suppose you are the young woman Miss Graham has recommended?"

The young woman nodded cheerfully. She looked very dignified and graceful in spite of her girlish. "I trust I'll prove worthy of Miss Graham's recommendation," said she in low contralto tones.

"Miss Graham is thoroughly alive to the difficult nature of the work here just at present. I take it for granted she must have known you well and felt convinced of your ability to give satisfaction, otherwise—" Craven opened his large Nebraska hand with an eloquent gesture.

Just for an appreciable fraction of a second two fleeting dimples stirred in the new secretary's oval cheeks.

"Miss Graham has known me for many years. She knows I will do my duty."

"Looks as if you would, anyhow," agreed Craven bluntly. He turned to Mrs. Mason, who still stood, eyes wide open and chin down, the picture of prim New England astonishment. "Mr. Temple's housekeeper, Miss Dale," said he. "You two must be friends."

The elder woman pulled herself together with an effort, and with a rather awkward consciousness held out her hand in response to Anna's well poised, nonchalant greeting. The Plymouth Rock conscience and diplomacy were not working well together, and she, poor lady, was in dire straits. "I understand I am to work here as well as in the New York office?" said Anna, turning toward Craven and adroitly keeping his attention focused away from Mrs. Mason.

"Uh-huh!" assented he. "For the next few weeks we shall be unmercifully rushed. Even ordinarily Mr. Temple carries on a large part of his business here, but this case will give him more than ever to do."

"The Granger case?" questioned the new secretary, with strange avidity. Craven nodded.

"Well, perhaps you'll be kind enough to explain this—this Granger case to me a bit now while we have time. It will save Mr. Temple that much exertion." She spoke with pretty little staccato catches in her breath, and her eyes were like stars. "An alert and intelligent young woman," commented the lawyer to himself.

"Why, yes, Miss Dale," he responded aloud, "the case is very simple. Sit down. About a year ago Mr. Temple rose to the presidency of the Gotham Trust company. Robert Granger was cashier. Cornelius Brady, a big financier, presented a check for $700,000. Mr. Temple did not feel justified in certifying this check, and Brady, without Temple's knowledge, went to Granger and induced him to certify it, making the trust company responsible for the money. Now, Granger had no right to do this, you understand. It was an overcertification. And the overcertification of that check, coming as it did just before the panic, helped in large measure to bring on the failure of the Gotham Trust company."

"But this Granger, did he not have a defense?" asked the young woman eagerly, watching Craven covertly from under her black lashes.

"Defense? Sure," granted he. "He had. Tried like the devil to convince the jury that Temple had given him an order."

"And there had been no order—written or verbal?"

"I said that Granger lied, Miss Dale. He had a fair trial. He was convicted and sent to Sing Sing. The jury gave a rightful verdict."

"But why, may I ask, why has this case come up again if it is all settled and done for?" She brought the tips of her little gloved hands together in a play of pretty interest.

"Well, Brady, the financier, has been doing a lot of talking, you see. Granger's conviction reflects pretty blackly on him. Then, the sensational yellow journals have taken it up—you know the way. I should advise you, Miss Dale, if you wish to become an efficient secretary to Mr. Temple, to arrive quickly at a belief in the guilt of that Granger, now justly confined in the prison ponder."

He nodded across and up the river toward the grim walls of Ossining.

"I understand, Mr. Craven. I have come to do my duty, and I shall be guided only by the truth," she said, with low, even serenity. But in the palm of her right hand glove where she had clutched it fiercely there was a tragic rent.

"Right. That's common sense," said he appreciatively, pulling out his watch again. "Now, Mrs. Mason will show you to your room. I must go to meet Mr. Temple. Suppose he'll wish to see you as soon as he gets here. Head over heels with things to do. Just look at that—lordy, lordy!" He indicated the littered desk and floor, and with quick, gingery strides quit the library.

"Mrs. Mason, oh, to think of finding you here!" Just so soon as the door was closed Anna had rushed to the elder woman and was kissing her exuberantly on both cheeks. A third kiss she let fall neatly on the spick and span gray head.

"And you, Anna Shepherd! You were only fifteen when I saw you last, but I'd have recognized you anywhere. Dear, dear child, for the love of heaven what are you doing here under an assumed name? What does it mean?"

"Well, first it means that I'm not Anna Shepherd either any more. I've been married for nearly eight years. Mrs. Mason. Fancy!" She held her out at arm's length and looked smilingly down into the woman's surprised eyes.

"And I've two boys, just the finest, bonniest boys in the whole world. Really and truly they are!"

"I'm sure of it, I'm sure of it," acquiesced Mrs. Mason. "How could you help having children of that sort! You know I always had a very warm spot in my heart for you, Anna. Your mother and I—"

"Oh, I know. I know! Poor, beautiful young mother of mine!" Hastily Anna brushed away a bit of undue moisture in her lustrous eyes. "How she used to preach love and ideals to me, and how you used to preach duty and principles! Have you still that little yellowed book compiled by your great-grandmother filled with clippings concerning the duties of motherhood, the goodness of woman and the inconsistency of man? I remember the margins of the book were strewn with old recipes for the dressing of meats, the preserving of fruits, the brewing of cunning cordials, all of which struck me as ministering to at least one constancy in man—his devotion to a good dinner, eh?" Anna laughed at the recollection.

"Yes, I still have it. And speaking of dinners, have you grown to be a good little housewife? I suppose your husband—but, by the way, you haven't yet told me your husband's name?"

A vivid crimson surged to Anna's face, her slim neck, her little ears and open brow. Then she threw back her pretty, patrician head proudly.

"My husband's name is Robert Granger."

They stared for an instant at each other, woman to woman. Then Mrs. Mason gasped:

"Robert Granger, the man?"

The young wife looked at her old friend almost sternly.

"The man who is in prison serving a term that Burton Temple should be serving. Oh, Mrs. Mason, what have I done? You must guard my confidence sacredly—you must! You will, won't you—you will?" She was white now and wide eyed with the import of it all.

"Why, yes, dear, of course—of course—of course. But tell me, I don't understand. Why are you here?"

"I am here, Mrs. Mason, to find some evidence that will clear my husband's name and that will send the guilty man to Sing Sing in his place." The soft insistence with which she pronounced her purpose was more startling than any violence could have been.

"How did you get Mary Graham's position?" pursued Mrs. Mason.

"You see, Mary and I have been friends, real friends, for years. We studied stenography in the same school ten years ago. We've kept up with each other ever since. When—when all this trouble came I asked her to help me, to see if she couldn't find some clew, something that would help somehow. It seems like a merciful providence that she had been sent here. She tried, but she couldn't. Finally she suggested that I come myself. She made a plea of ill health, and so it was quite simply managed, you see."

"But the children, Anna?"

"Oh, it nearly broke my heart to leave them! But I had to, you see. There's no one else to do the fighting for their father's honor. If I can only find some evidence."

"You think there is hope of finding some?"

"Oh, there is hope. But I've got to fight for it; and, dear God, I'm going to! I'm going to meet this Burton Temple, and I'm going to fight him."

"I'll be his faithful secretary, but I'll spy upon him; I'll be his shadow. There must come some unguarded moment when his mask will fall. I'll do his bidding, oh, yes, my hands riding his desk. He'll know what it is to have an outraged mother spying at his side!"

"S-sh-h, dearie! Some one will hear. You're overwrought."

"There is something almost tigerish in mother love, isn't there, Mrs. Mason? That's how I feel sometimes, quite like a tigress. I wonder if you can understand the agony of it when my boys ask me about their father. 'Where's father?' 'Why does he stay so long?' 'When's he coming home?' And I have to look into their baby faces and lie to them. When they give me their morning kiss I lie to them. When they say their prayers I lie. I even let the little tots lie to God. And, oh, the questions they can ask! Of course I know that God, being God, will understand—that he alone can make allowances for a mother's love and lies, but the most miserable part of it is that soon these lies will be no good. Now I can delude them by some trumped up story of travel and foreign lands, but soon at school they will be told, they will be taunted. Oh, the torture!"

Mrs. Mason, wishing to distract her attention from this tragic note, said:

"But their father, tell me a little about him. I know, however unjustly he may be suffering at present, that he is in reality a strong, forceful man, a man who can do big things. I always knew my little Anna would marry a man like that."

There was a slight pathetic uplifting of the lovely eyebrows, then an indescribably delicate smile, with just the faintest hint of sadness, as Anna Granger slowly shook her head.

"No, Bobs isn't that kind at all," she said. "He's of the gentle, sweet, appealing sort, not forceful, and he'll never do big things, but there are other qualities which can make up for forcefulness, don't you think? And he's clever. He was advanced rapidly in the Gotham Trust company. Only—sometimes when I'm very tired and spent—I long for the lion strength. It's dreadful for a woman as young as I am to feel so utterly weary!"

She walked unthinkingly over to the big bay window. There beyond the blue flowing Hudson the grim prison walls smote her vision.

"Oh, what was I saying?" she cried, with a little penitent sob. "I feel like a traitor to Robert. Poor, dear boy, suffering up there for another's crime. He may have his—his weaknesses and failings—whichever of us has not? But at least he's not the sort ever to be guilty of theft, and he's just the best father and husband in the world. Forget what I said, Mrs. Mason. You will, won't you?"

"To be sure, dearie—to be sure. I think you're a noble woman, Anna—a model wife. And what's better, a brave mother." She studied quietly with herself for a few seconds, while Anna gathered her poise. Possibly providence had decreed that she remain under this uncongenial roof for the sole purpose of watching over this poor, motherless girl. Then:

"You see, dear, when you came I had just decided it was my duty to leave Mr. Temple. Now I am going to stay and help you in your brave endeavor. I'll stay at least till his mother gets back. She's abroad now, and Jollying the Parents.

"Why did you chuck that baby under the chin?" asked the man. "It is such an ugly little sinner."

"That's why I chuckled him," said the woman. "I always pet the ugly babies. Pretty babies get so much coddling from strangers that their parents take it as a matter of course. It is the fathers and mothers of homey babies who appreciate attention. Didn't you notice how pleased that couple looked? I don't suppose any body ever petted their baby before except themselves. They'll think a lot more of the youngster after this."

Cigar Stumps.

Gather the cigar stumps about the house and place them in a can until enough are accumulated. Soak them in tepid water a day, sprinkle this on plants. It prevents worms and bugs infesting them. Take the wet tobacco and sprinkle over the carpet and sweep well. This takes up dust and keeps away moths. Also crumble stumps fine and put them in hen nests to keep away chicken lice, instead of buying tobacco stems for the same purpose.

FOUND NEW WAY TO LOWER FOOD PRICE

Indianapolis Mayor's Municipal Market Popular.

BROUGHT POTATO PRICES DOWN

Indianapolis, Oct. 14.—Mayor Shank is preparing to continue his war on the "potato trust," if he has to send five hundred miles to get his supplies for the local market. The mayor announced that he could obtain all the potatoes he desired in Minnesota at prices that would permit him to continue retailing them here at 75 cents a bushel.

The mayor expects to receive two additional carloads that he bought at 68 cents a bushel laid down here.

Other cities are beginning to pattern after Indianapolis in the matter of the municipal commission house. Mayor Shank got two letters recently from mayors of other cities asking for advice on the project. Especially were the officials anxious to know from whom the mayor purchased his potatoes.

J. B. White, mayor of Williamsburg, Ky., is the first applicant for admission to the low cost of living society, but W. C. Luth of Sulphur, Ok., is a close second.

Mayor Shank's potato business began the last part of September, after commission men of Indianapolis had practically obtained a monopoly on the potato trade there. For some time potatoes had been selling at 60 and 70 cents a peck and the municipal authorities were unable to force the commission men to lower their price. Then Mayor Shank got his idea.

By going straight to the farmers he was able to buy potatoes as low as 69 cents a bushel. He bought two carloads. They were hauled to the public market place and the mayor and his assistants began selling them. They sold at 10 cents a half peck, 20 cents a peck, or 75 cents a bushel, the bushel price being only six cents higher than the original purchasing price.

But that did not force the commission men and retailers to lower their prices. And so, October 6, the mayor bought another carload, which he sold as before, the original price plus enough to pay for the handling and shipping.

Since then Mayor Shank has received many inquiries regarding his plan in reducing prices—for they have been reduced a bit by his action. R. H. Campbell of Dallas, Tex., a district organizer for the American Federation of Labor was one who sent inquiries.

OKLAHOMA COUNTY WAR ENDS

Swanson County Drops Fight for Existence After Long Struggle.

Lawton, Ok., Oct. 14.—Swanson county will drop its fight for existence. Formed from parts of Kiowa and Comanche counties, illegally so, according to the Oklahoma supreme court, but defiant until the federal court refused to grant an injunction interfering with its dissolution. The refusal blasted its last hope and Sheriff W. H. Brashears and three of his deputies who are wanted in Comanche county for murder, telephoned Sheriff Nix that he and his men would come to Lawton Monday morning and surrender. For three months following the dissolution order they have delayed arrest. Four times warrants were served but the whole town of Mountain Park armed and threatened war and force was not used.

College Men for Farms.

Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 14.—Dr. Wilbur N. Mason, the new president of Baker university spoke before the students of the University of Kansas in the chapel on the "Debt of the College Man." "Some men feel that they are only fit for a position in the city when they leave school, but this is a mistake," he said. "Every man who has a college education can plow better and harvest better for having had that training."

Wichita Grew the Fastest.

Topeka, Oct. 14.—Kansas has grown mightily in population, according to the percentage figures of the United States census just received. The following shows the percentage of increase in population in the six largest cities of the state: Wichita, 112.6; Hutchinson, 74.5; Kansas City, 60.1; Topeka, 30; Leavenworth, 6.6; Atchison, 4.5.

Capper Talks to Home Folks.

Garnett, Kan., Oct. 14.—Arthur Capper, before the people of Garnett, where he was born and where he lived until he was a young man, declared that if elected governor of Kansas he not only would enforce the prohibitory law, but that he would refuse to appoint any one to office who used intoxicating liquor.

JOHN W. GATES AND THE CAB

Little Gambling Episode in Which "Watch-Me" Was Able to Say "You Lose" Three Times.

A Gates anecdote that never got so far as it deserved, if it was true, was about his riding down town from a New York hotel in a cab with a stock market friend.

"I'll match you," said John Watch-me, "to see whether you or I buy this horse and cab from the driver, if it's his."

It was cabby's, so they matched, and John Watch-me had the satisfaction of saying, "You lose." The bargain struck, John Watch-me had another proposition to offer the new owner.

"Now I'll match you," he said, "to see whether you keep the outfit or whether you sell it back to cabby at his own price." And once more John Watch-me said, "You lose."

Here it dawned upon Gates' companion that in the last match John Watch-me had stood no chance to lose, whichever way it went, and he made remarks.

"All right," said John Watch-me, "I'll match you to see whether you or I stand the difference between the buying and the selling price." For what he had just sold cabby would only give a buying price that was just $100 less. This was the stake in the last match, and for the third time John Watch-me was able to say, "You lose."

TWO MULES WITH HISTORY

The Only Hybrids in the Geographical Service Are Sent to Kauai.

Two mules with a history were shipped down to W. B. Hardy on the Island of Kauai recently. He is carrying on the work of the geographical and water research branch of the department there, and it was found that animal transportation was the only way to meet the difficulties.

There were only two mules in that branch of the service and they were over in California. Likewise Hardy was the man who worked them over there when he was on the mainland. Now he and his friends will be reunited on Kauai.

The work of the department on that island is arduous owing to the fact that where the water runs are not always roads. Accordingly, some means have to be found by which the investigator could get about. He has a saddle and pack and can ride the mules as far as he can get them over the tracks, and then do the rest of the work on foot. The work necessitates constant traveling of a rough sort.—Honolulu Bulletin.

Not a Cheap Building.

It has been estimated that to rebuild the pyramid of Cheops under modern conditions an expenditure of $100,000,000 would be necessary and the labor of 40,000 men for two years required.

It has been calculated that the work really required the services of 100,000 men for thirty years.

The pyramid occupies a space of twelve and three-quarters acres, is 746 feet high and contains about 143,315,000 cubic yards of stone and granite.

The material alone represents an item of $36,000,000, while the labor would increase this amount to $72,000,000. To this must be added $3,600,000 for tools, transportation, and similar items.

The pyramid is built on a solid rock 150 feet deep, and to build a foundation of this character would add to the cost to the extent of making the total of $100,000,000.—Scientific American.

When Sleeping.

It is well to sleep from infancy with the head uncovered, as the hair thus retains its beauty longer. On retiring the hair should be raised high above the ears, without pulling, plaited loosely in a single braid and tied with a silk or cotton ribbon. Avoid wearing starched nightcaps, as the starch is injurious to the hair. When old age approaches it may be well to wear nightcaps.

Brush the hair well, using a soft brush, on going to bed and in the morning. The best brushes are made with short bristles. If the hair is combed from the roots downward without being divided in several parts, much harm may be done to it. The hairs would certainly be broken off, become uneven and could never be made to look cared for. It is an excellent thing to smooth the hair with the hands.

Cats Drive Off Snakes.

For many years I have been running a cattle station in Queensland, where snakes are tolerably numerous. At the head station we have always kept up a standing army of from 15 to 20 cats and have been practically free from the presence of snakes about the building and yards.

That this was owing to the presence of our cats I have no doubt whatever. They were always on the lookout, and I have often seen members of our feline body guard growling over dead or dying snakes and have more than once witnessed savage encounters between them and their victims. On the other hand, martyrs to their duty were from time to time found dead in the morning with all the evidence of a fight and their defeat in the shape of a snakebite on their bodies.—Spectator.

Frank Debord, 54 years old, a prominent stockman whose home was near Bolckow, Mo., and said to be one of the largest land owners in Andrew county, died at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at a local hospital. LED BY THE LADIES

FRATERNAL PARADE WAS GREAT CREDIT TO ORGANIZATIONS.

SATURDAY CROWD BIG ONE

Thousands Throng Streets to See Children's Parade and Fair Attractions.

This Evening's Program.

7:00—Flying Bickets, Fourth, between Main and Market.

7:15—Price and Ellsberry in their wonderful acrobatic acts, Third and Market.

7:30—Rosards in their iron jaw and ring act, Fifth and Main.

9:30—McCoys at Second and Main.

At 9 o'clock the carnival night will commence. Order is to be maintained. Confetti will be sold then and a general good time will be had.

The fraternal parade Friday night was the principal feature of the day, and was in every way a credit to the organizations taking part. The parade started at 8 o'clock from St. Patrick's church and marched through the business streets.

The Maryville band headed the procession and was charmingly escorted by the Maryville Ladies' Military band. This was the first appearance of the ladies' band, and they certainly deserved all the million compliments they received. They looked as lovely as a bunch of three dozen American Beauty roses, in their white dresses, red sweaters and white hats. So there now, girls! We mean every word of it.

The drill team of the Woodmen of the World came next, under command of Lieutenant Phipps, and they sure had the proper military look. The fact that they had been honored with a place as escort to the ladies' band was the right thing for a good looking bunch like they are.

The Woodmen and Woodmen Circle floats followed, containing the officers of those lodges, and the Sovereigns marched behind. Both floats were handsomely decorated in their lodge colors and the street fair colors. The officers of the Woodmen are Roy Martin, consul commander; D. T. Littler, advisor; Lieutenant; R. F. Wallace, banker; John W. Airy, clerk; Pearl Edwards, escort; J. L. O'Grady, watchman; W. B. Blatchley, sentry; D. F. Mitchell, Frank Martin and R. A. Strawbridge, managers. The officers of the Circle are Mrs. M. A. Turner, guardian; Mrs. Frank Martin, advisor; Mrs. Roy Martin, secretary; Miss Dora Allen, attendant.

A big delegation of Elks came next, and the goat was taken along for an outing. He seemed to have an aversion for a big mixed crowd, and had to be coaxed and petted into marching. Henry Wilson had charge of the goat.

The Owls lodge came next, preceded by a beautiful float, in which were nine little girls, Mildred Avitt, Edith Grundy, LaCreta Smith, Orvetta Smith, Marie Alden, Irene Maxwell, Celia Martin, Leona Littler and Venice Bratcher, all "daughters of Owls." A large delegation of Owls ended the procession, headed by the lodge officers: Berney Harris, president; Dr. N. W. Templeton, vice president; John Hanson, secretary; George B. Baker, treasurer; B. W. Lemon, invocator; Frank McClain, warden; Glover Kelley and Charles Hefflin, sentinels.

The parade was witnessed by the largest night crowd of the fair, and everyone praised the efforts of the five hundred who had a part in it.

At the close of the parade the Maryville Ladies' Military band played their first piece in public at the entrance to the Mead Alabama minstrel show at Third and Buchanan streets. Not one of its members had stage fright, although the band has had but three practices. Everybody was delighted with their playing, and when they give their first concert, in a month or two we predict it will be the hit of the season. The title of the piece they played, a waltz, was very appropriate, as it is named "Chinky-Chonky Waltz," by McCoy.

Saturday morning the program opened with a fine band concert before the largest crowd that has yet gathered in the morning. The people were pouring into the city from every direction, and morning trains brought in hundreds. By 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the crowd had swelled to thousands to witness the children's parade, and it is the largest of any during the week.

Saturday bids fair to end gloriously

and with an immense crowd, as the weather is perfect.

As The Democrat-Forum went to press at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon the children's parade was being formed at the Empire theater, and it proved the most popular of any event of the week. A full account will be given in Monday's paper.

The carnival night opens at 9 o'clock tonight and will continue until 12 o'clock.

ONE OF THE FIRST MEN THERE.

R. G. Brummitt Tells of the Drowning of Jabe Dean.

R. G. Brummitt of near Skidmore was in Maryville Saturday taking in the street fair. Mr. Brummitt was one of the first men at the Dean home, near Quitman, Friday morning. He says Jabe Dean, the man who was drowned Thursday night in Sand creek, near Quitman, and his brother, Joseph Dean, were attempting to cross the creek to see if it was safe to take their families across, as the water was running around the Dean house and was commencing to go into the house. When they arrived near the creek, the water was running over the road, and on going a little farther the wagon box was carried away by the swift current, and Joseph Dean jumped out and caught hold of a tree, while Jabe Dean attempted to wade across a draw near the creek. The last that Joseph Dean saw of him was when he was attempting to wade to the opposite bank.

The body of Jabe Dean was found about a half mile south of where he was wading, about 8 o'clock Friday morning. Joseph Dean was rescued about 4 o'clock Friday morning.

As the Dean family is in destitute circumstances, $50 was raised Friday morning, and $75 was raised here in Maryville for the family.

The funeral services will be held today and burial will take place in the cemetery at Quitman.

She is gaining strength rapidly and will soon be as well as ever.

AMERICAN FENCE

CHINESE CAPITAL IS THREATENED

Revolution is Growing Rapidly and
Troops Are Joining Everywhere.

Massacre Reported at Hankow and
all Business is Suspended—
American Consul Enters
Wu Chang.

Peking, Oct. 14.—China today faces an unprecedented crisis. With the spread of revolutionary activity, the opinion is gaining ground that the fate of the ruling dynasty hangs in the balance.

The revolution is no longer confined to the central provinces, 1,000 miles away from the capital. Peking itself is threatened.

Members of the cabinet admit that the garrison here is known to be honeycombed with revolutionary sentiment. The same condition exists in the two great military posts which guard the capital, Pao Ting Fu and Tien Tsin.

There are still official attempts to minimize the gravity of the situation, but the reports reaching the capital give little basis for hope.

Every effort of the authorities for the present will be centered in an attempt to provide adequate defense for the capital of the empire. The sixth division of the army was ordered to entrain immediately for Fong Tai, a suburb of Peking.

The revolutionists have informed the consuls at Hankow that they will respect all treaties and loans and indemnities contracted by the Chinese government.

Hankow, Oct. 14.—The rebels have been unable to maintain order and business has been completely suspended here and at Han-Yang and Wu Chang. The working classes are without employment and are attempting to plunder. Fully 500,000 persons have fled to the country side.

There was a massacre of Manchu families which left large numbers of dead, and to add to the danger all the prisons were opened and the inmates released to wander about the town.

The revolutionary organization is making every effort to restore order
and it is announced that rioters, wherever caught, will be severely dealt with.

The American consul general, Roger
S. Greene, crossed the Yang Tse river to Wu Chang, accompanied by the commander of the American gunboat
Helena, and two Chinese interpreters.
The party went unarmed and entered the gates of the city after they had been opened for a squad of rebel artillery to pass out.

POSTOFFICE CLERK ARRESTED

Atchison Man, Regarded as Most Efficient in Office, Stole Letters
for Three Years.

Atchison, Oct. 14.—Seth Brainerd, 27 years old, seven years a mailing clerk in the Atchison postoffice, was arrested by a government detective
on a charge of pilfering letters. Brainerd confessed that his operations had extended over three years. A decoy letter resulted in Brainerd's arrest.

Inspector R. S. Brauer took Brainerd
to Leavenworth and his case will be taken before the federal grand jury, now in session.

Brainerd has a wife and two children, one a girl only 5 days old. Mrs.
Brainerd has not been told of her husband's arrest. Brainerd was regarded as the most efficient clerk in the local office.

Union Pacific Engines Burned.

Sidney, Neb., Oct. 14.—A fire destroyed the Union Pacific roundhouse
here, together with eight large passenger and freight engines. The loss is placed at $200,000. The fire is believed to have started from a lighted torch.

Farmer Accidentally Killed.

Burlington, Kan., Oct. 14.—George Metzger, a farmer southwest of Burlington, was killed by the accidental discharge of a shotgun he was pulling from a wagon load of corn. He lived only long enough to say good-by to his wife and sister-in-law.

Cloudburst Drowns a Farmer.

Maryville, Mo., Oct. 14.—John Dean and his family, who were returning in a wagon to their home near here were caught in a cloudburst and wagon and occupants washed into a ravine and Dean drowned.

Lightning Burns a Home.

Leavenworth, Kan., Oct. 14.—The home of Jacob Wiseman at Richardson, just south of the Soldiers' home,
was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire. The family had difficulty in escaping, but none was injured.

$45,000 High School at Clinton.

Clinton, Mo., Oct. 14.—The corner stone of Clinton's $45,000 high school building has just been laid with Masonic ceremonies.

DEMANDS RIGHT TO INSPECT
VISCERA.

Chicago Chemists Ignore Demand and Attorneys Ask Court Order
on Question.

Kansas City, Oct. 14.—An unexpected coup has been sprung on the state's attorneys in the Hyde case. While the lawyers here were arguing the motion for elisors, three representatives of Doctor Hyde called upon Dr.
Walter Haines and Dr. Ludwig Hektoen, the Swope scientists, in Chicago and demanded the right to inspect the portions of the viscera yet in their possession.

The three men who made the demands upon the chemists are: R. R.
Brewster, one of the physician's counselors; Dr. Walter Cross, city chemist, and Dr. E. E. Smith of New York City. Doctor Smith is a professor in Fordham university and was Doctor Hyde's leading medical witness at the first trial.

Frank P. Walsh made the first announcement of the demand to be made of the Swope experts. When Judge Porterfield adjourned the hearing on the elisors, that he might take up his work as juvenile judge, Mr. Walsh rose from his chair.

"One minute, please," he said, "I've got a motion here that must be heard at once."

The state's attorneys who had begun to leave the courtroom turned.
Mr. Walsh handed J. A. Reed a copy of the motion and then began to read it to the court. It was a request of the court for an order instructing the Swope scientists to permit the medical experts employed by Doctor Hyde to inspect the viscera under such rules as the court should make.

"The state certainly shall resist any efforts of Hyde's representatives to obtain the state's evidence," Reed said.
"The state will ask a hearing on the motion."

Judge Porterfield said he would hear the application for the order immediately upon the conclusion of the application for elisors. It undoubtedly will precipitate as bitter a legal clash as the motion for the elisors.

ROBBERS GOT PAY ENVELOPES

Postoffice at Mulberry, Kan., Loses
Registered Package Containing $10,000.

Pittsburg, Kan., Oct. 14.—The postoffice at Mulberry, 15 miles northeast of here, has been robbed. It is reported that one registered package contained $10,000 belonging to the Sheridan Coal company, sent here to pay off the miners at four of the mines. Postmaster Kurtz refuses to say anything about the matter. Officials of the coal company also refuse to deny or confirm the report that one of the packages contained
the money for the miners.

It is believed by the officials that the robbery was the work of professional robbers who knew of the coming of the money for payday. Several robberies of similar nature have occurred in the mining fields the last two or three years.

CABINET PLACE FOR DR. WILEY?

Effort Being Made for Creation of
New Department With Pure
Food Man at Head.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Dr. Harvey
W. Wiley still is the center of contention, but the present agitation seems likely to elevate him in rank in the government service. Secretary Wilson is urging that Doctor Wiley
and the enforcement of the Pure Food law be removed from his department and that the latter be placed at the head of the public health and marine hospital service.

Friends of Doctor Wiley are making concerted effort for the creation of a new cabinet department of public health, with the expectation that he be placed at its head.

Plumbing Trust Hit.

Baltimore, Oct. 14.—The "bath tub"
trust got its jolt when Judge Rose in the federal court rendered a decision in favor of the government in its dissolution suit against the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company and others in the trust. Judge Pritchard concurred with Judge Rose, while Judge Goff dissented.

Storm Delays Trains.

Chickasha, Ok., Oct. 14.—All trains
on the main line of the C. R. I. & P.
railroad are from eight to ten hours
late arriving here. A cloudburst north of El Reno compelled some trains to proceed in a number of places with the water running over the track.

Town to Be Moved.

Hutchinson, Kan., Oct. 14.—According to Harry Kirby, a ranchman, who owns nearly 20 sections in Haskell county, the town of Santa Fe, county seat of Haskell county, is to be moved bodily six miles south to a new townsite, on Section 32, Township 29, Range 32.

Chicago Fog Bound.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Two persons were killed and more than a score were injured in accidents, due to a heavy fog that enveloped Chicago and its suburbs nearly eight hours.

STANDARD OIL TIME IS SHORT

Trust is Now Busy Trying to Find
Way Out of Difficulty.

MANY METHODS ARE PROPOSED

Decision Regarding Status of Pipe Lines as Common Carriers to Have Bearing on Plan
Adopted.

New York, Oct. 14.—The telegraphic tentacles of "26" Broadway far flung over the country are responsible for the presence in New York of more oil men than ever assembled before. In all the first class hotels officials of the trust's 19 subsidiaries are quartered. The elevators at "26" transport men long in the Rockefeller service and foreign agents summoned to attend the most important industrial powwow ever held in this city.

The Standard's legal force is busy with two great problems—first, the dissolution of the trust; second, the impending decision of the interstate commerce commission as to legal status of the pipe line trust controlled by the Standard. If that decision shall, as expected, be that pipe lines are common carriers, the Standard will be compelled to open its lines to the independent oil dealers
in Oklahoma, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Texas and other states where it now
prevents competition.

It is with the first problem chiefly that the masters and hired men of the Standard are now struggling. No information can be obtained from the executive officials of the company illustrative of the plan which must be adopted by November 15. But some men of lesser degree who are in daily conference with the heads of the departments have a fairly definite idea of the nature of three methods of complying with the law now under consideration.

All of these plans are ready to be submitted to the directors of the Standard.

There was a fourth plan, which, it is said, was rejected as soon as proposed. This was to dispose of the control of the majority stock interest
in each of the subsidiary companies to foreign holders. The mission of William Rockefeller to London, was believed to have some relation to this plan.

New Move by Hawley Interests Said
to be Most Important to Southwest.

Austin, Tex., Oct. 14.—The Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway has bought from J. A. Kemp and Frank Kell of this place, and associates, the Wichita Falls & Northwestern and the Wichita Falls and Southern railways. These roads have about 450 miles of track.

The purchase of this system of roads by the Hawley interests is one of the most important railway transactions that has taken place in the Southwest for a long time.

It is said to be the plan of the M.
K. & T. to extend the Wichita Falls line to Liberal, Kan., thence to Denver. Construction has been in progress on that extension for some time. The route between Liberal and Pueblo, Col., is through a region that is greatly in need of a railroad.

Katy Refuses Demands.

Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 14.—W. A. Durham, assistant general manager of the M. K. & T. railway has refused to accede to the demands of the 1,500 car men on the system who have been on a strike since September 23, and their case has been appealed to A. A.
Allen, president of the company. The strikers say there is no change in the situation along the entire system.

May Take Myers to Fresno.

Jefferson City, Oct. 14.—Gov. Hadley heard the extradition proceedings of J. P. Myers of Kansas City, who is wanted at Fresno, Cal., on a charge of embezzlement and took the matter under advisement. The requisition by the California authorities was resisted by Myers.

Deadlock in McNamara Trial.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 14.—After
two days of court session in the trial of J. B. McNamara no juror had been selected even tentatively and no decision had been reached as to the eligibility of the first talesman examined.

Hazers Dismissed.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 14.—Two sophomores were dismissed from the University of Illinois for hazing freshmen. They were implicated in recent episodes near the college campus, where freshmen were subjected to various indignities.

Mrs. Pankhurst to Kansas.

Topeka, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English suffragist, is coming to help the Kansas women in their fight for votes. The Kansas Equal Suffrage association is arranging for as many speaking dates in Kansas as Mrs. Pankhurst can give.

Communication

Christian Peace League.

The Maryville Pastors' Alliance, at the last meeting, passed a resolution
endorsing the Christian Herald Peace League, recently inaugurated in New York City. They resolved themselves into a committee of the whole to investigate and report the practicability of organizing a Peace Circle in Maryville at their next regular meeting.

The league is composed of branches called Peace Circles in every town and locality where they can be formed—all being under the jurisdiction of the parent organization in New York,
which is headquarters of the movement.

The object of the movement, which is that all good citizens of either sex
who sincerely wish to aid in advancing international and national peace
and arbitration, the higher patriotism,
etc., may be able to do so on practical lines.

The effort to organize Peace Circles
in every community and home has met with unprecedented response from intelligent sympathizers throughout the country. The Christian Peace League is at present the most inspiring organization of its kind in the world. No more practical or ideal agency for the propagation or spreading of peace principles exists.

The Peace League is interdenomi-
national and politically non-partisan.
Unlike the W. C. T. U. and most other civic and reform societies, it has no sex distinctions. Anyone over 12 years old of either sex can become a member.

It is not exclusive. Its sole object being the spread of anti-war principles and civic righteousness taught by Jesus Christ, therefore anyone who endorses these can become a member,
whether he be Christian or not.

The Bible says, "From whence come wars and fightings among you? Come they not hence, even of your lusts that war in your members?"

A great general in our civil war said, "War is hell." I never heard of any one disputing it, especially no soldier who has been on the firing line.

Where there is hell there is a devil
at the bottom kindling the fire and keeping it burning.

When Christ was maliciously indicted for a capital crime and Malchus
was sent with others to arrest him, intrepid, stalwart St. Peter decided to precipitate, and drag Christ and his disciples into what he conceived to be a holy war by decapitat-ing this government official by a mighty fell stroke with his sword.
Malchus dodged and Peter's glancing stroke cut off his ear. Jesus touched his ear and restored it to as perfect soundness as though it never had been hurt. And Jesus rebuked Peter's belligerent spirit saying, "Put up again thy sword into its place, for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Jesus, with the non-resistling meekness of "a lamb brought to the slaughter," submitted to the nefarious trial, condemnation and execution on the cross.

He endured this to give "the law
going forth out of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem" new gracious power from heaven that it could not have without His death and resurrection.

Then Jesus became "the Word made flesh" and "the truth which alone can make men free indeed" and mighty before God to the casting down of strongholds, casting down imaginations and every high thing that is exalted against the knowledge of God and bringing every thought into captivity to the obedience of Christ,"
"casting the prince of this world out"
and enthroning himself the Prince of Peace and King on earth as he is King in heaven.

"Then swords shall be beat into plowshares, and spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more. But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree; and none shall make him afraid; for the mouth of Jehovah of hosts hath spoken it."

The movement is not second in importance to the war against the liquor traffic.

"The work of Peace Circles is conducted in harmony with the principles advocated by the peace congress which recently met in Baltimore."

They are conducted economically.
There is initiation free. "Whatever small funds may be needed (for stamps, etc.) may be raised either by a collection or by a system of ten-cent
dues."

"Literature of the peace movement, prepared by the national society, will be furnished to the secretaries for use in the circles free. Postage, however,
should be sent to defray cost of transmission by mail." Its advantages are therefore mainly without money and without price.

We trust everybody will hold up the hands of our Pastors' Alliance by attending when they call a mass meeting to give patriotic philanthropists an opportunity to volunteer under this Immanuel peace banner. Join the army and "fall in" when they bid

us forward march against Analekto militarism. ADAM KERN.

CHAPTER III. THE GRANGER CASE.

THE new secretary, equally astonished, put her fingers to her lips, commanding silence, and Mrs. Mason widened the distance abruptly as Craven, at the slight noise, turned from the window.

"I'm Craven, Mr. Temple's legal adviser," he said. "I suppose you are the young woman Miss Graham has recommended?"

The young woman nodded cheerfully. She looked very girlish and graceful in spite of her dignity. "I trust I'll prove worthy of Miss Graham's recommendation," said she in low contralto tones.

"Miss Graham is thoroughly alive to the difficult nature of the work here just at present. I take it for granted she must have known you well and felt convinced of your ability to give satisfaction, otherwise—Craven opened his large Nebraska hand with an eloquent gesture.

Just for an appreciable fraction of a second two fleeting dimples stirred in the new secretary's oval cheeks.

"Miss Graham has known me for many years. She knows I will do my duty."

"Looks as if you would, anyhow," agreed Craven bluntly. He turned to Mrs. Mason, who still stood, eyes wide open and chin down, the picture of grim New England astonishment. "Mr. Temple's housekeeper, Miss Dale," said he. "You two must be friends."

The elder woman pulled herself together with an effort, and with a rather awkward consciousness held out her hand in response to Anna's well poised, nonchalant greeting. The Plymouth Rock conscience and diplomacy were not working well together, and she, poor lady, was in dire straits. "I understand I am to work here as well as in the New York office?" said Anna, turning toward Craven and adroitly keeping his attention focused away from Mrs. Mason.

"Th-h-h!" assented he. "For the next few weeks we shall be unmercifully rushed. Even ordinarily Mr. Temple carries on a large part of his business here, but this case will give him more than ever to do."

"The Granger case?" questioned the new secretary, with strange avidity. Craven nodded.

"Well, perhaps you'll be kind enough to explain this—this Granger case to me a bit now while we have time? It will save Mr. Temple that much exertion." She spoke with pretty little staccato catches in her breath, and her eyes were like stars. "An alert and intelligent young woman," commented the lawyer to himself.

"Why, yes, Miss Dale," he responded aloud. "The case is very simple. Sit down. About a year ago Mr. Temple rose to the presidency of the Gotham Trust company. Robert Granger was cashier. Cornelius Brady, a big financier, presented a check for $700,000. Mr. Temple did not feel justified in certifying this check, and Brady, without Temple's knowledge, went to Granger and induced him to certify it, making the trust company responsible for the money. Now, Granger had no right to do this, you understand. It was an overcertification. And the overcertification of that check, coming as it did just before the panic, helped in large measure to bring on the failure of the Gotham Trust company."

"But this Granger, did he not have a defense?" asked the young woman eagerly, watching Craven covertly from under her black lashes.

"Defense? Sure," grunted he. "He had. Tried like the devil to convince the jury that Temple had given him an order."

HER WEIGHT INCREASED FROM 100 TO 140 POUNDS.

Wonderful Praise Accorded Peruna the Household Remedy

Mrs. Maria Goertz, Orienta, Oklahoma, writes:

"My husband, children and myself have used your medicines, and we always keep them in the house in case of necessity. I was restored to health by this medicine, and Dr. Hartman's invaluable advice and books. People ask about me from different places, and are surprised that I can do all of my household alone, and that I was cured by the doctor of chronic catarrh. My husband was cured of asthma, my daughter of earache and catarrh of the stomach, and my son of catarrh of the throat. When I was sick I weighed 100 pounds; now I weigh 140.

"I have regained my health again, and I cannot thank you enough for your advice. May God give you a long life and bless your work."

"And there had been no order—written or verbal?"

"I said that Granger lied, Miss Dale. He had a fair trial. He was convicted and sent to Sing Sing. The jury gave a rightful verdict."

"But why, may I ask, why has this case come up again if it is all settled and done for?" She brought the tips of her little gloved hands together in a play of pretty interest.

"Well, Brady, the financier, has been doing a lot of talking, you see. Granger's conviction reflects pretty blackly on him. Then, the sensational yellow journals have taken it up—you know the way. I should advise you, Miss Dale, if you wish to become an efficient secretary to Mr. Temple, to arrive quickly at a belief in the guilt of that Granger, now justly confined in the prison yonder." He nodded across and up the river toward the grim walls of Ossining.

"I understand, Mr. Craven. I have come to do my duty, and I shall be guided only by the truth," she said, with low, even serenity. But in the palm of her right hand glove where she had clutched it fiercely there was a tragic rent.

"Right. That's common sense," said he appreciatively, pulling out his watch again. "Now, Mrs. Mason will show you to your room. I must go to meet Mr. Temple. Suppose he'll wish to see you as soon as he gets here. Head over heels with things to do. Just look at that—lordy, lordy!" He indicated the littered desk and floor, and with quick, gingery strides quit the library.

"Mrs. Mason, oh, to think of finding you here!" Just so soon as the door was closed Anna had rushed to the elder woman and was kissing her exuberantly on both cheeks. A third kiss she let fall neatly on the spick and span gray head.

"And you, Anna Shepherd! You were only fifteen when I saw you last, but I'd have recognized you anywhere. Dear, dear child, for the love of heaven what are you doing here under an assumed name? What does it mean?"

"Well, first it means that I'm not Anna Shepherd either any more. I've been married for nearly eight years. Mrs. Mason. Fancy!" She held her out at arm's length and looked smilingly down into the woman's surprised eyes.

"And I've two boys, just the finest, bonniest boys in the whole world. Really and truly they are!"

"I'm sure of it. I'm sure of it," acquiesced Mrs. Mason. "How could you help having children of that sort? You know I always had a very warm spot in my heart for you, Anna. Your mother and I—"

"Oh, I know, I know! Poor, beautiful young mother of mine!" Hastily Anna brushed away a bit of undue moisture in her lustrous eyes. "How she used to preach love and ideals to me, and how you used to preach duty and principles! Have you still that little yellowed book compiled by your great-grandmother filled with clippings concerning the duties of motherhood, the goodness of woman and the inconsistency of man? I remember the margins of the book were strewn with old recipes for the dressing of meats, the preserving of fruits, the brewing of cunning cordials, all of which struck me as ministering to at least one constancy in man—his devotion to a good dinner, eh?" Anna laughed at the recollection.

"Yes, I still have it. And speaking of dinners, have you grown to be a good little housewife? I suppose your husband—but, by the way, you haven't yet told me your husband's name?"

A vivid crimson surged to Anna's face, her slim neck, her little ears and open brow. Then she threw back her pretty, patrician head proudly. "My husband's name is Robert Granger."

"They stared for an instant at each other, woman to woman. Then Mrs. Mason gasped: "Robert Granger, the man?"

"The young wife looked at her old friend almost sternly.

"The man who is in prison serving a term that Burton Temple should be serving. Oh, Mrs. Mason, what have I done? You must guard my confidence sacredly—you must! You will, won't you—you will?" She was white now and wide eyed with the import of it all.

"Why, yes, dear, of course—of course. But tell me, I don't understand. Why are you here?"

"I am here, Mrs. Mason, to find some evidence that will clear my husband's name and that will send the guilty man to Sing Sing in his place." The soft insistence with which she pronounced her purpose was more startling than any violence could have been.

"How did you get Mary Graham's position?" pursued Mrs. Mason.

"You see, Mary and I have been friends, real friends, for years. We studied stenography in the same school ten years ago. We've kept up with each other ever since. When—when all this trouble came I asked her to help me, to see if she couldn't find some clue, something that would help somehow. It seems like a merciful providence that she had been sent here. She tried, but she couldn't. Finally she suggested that I come myself. She made a plea of ill health, and so it was quite simply managed, you see."

"But the children, Anna?"

"Oh, it nearly broke my heart to leave them! But I had to, you see. There's no one else to do the fighting for their father's honor. If I can only find some evidence."

"You think there is hope of finding some?"

"Oh, there is hope. But I've got to fight for it; and, dear God, I'm going to! I'm going to meet this Burton Temple, and I'm going to fight him."

"I'll be his faithful secretary, but I'll spy upon him; I'll be his shadow. There must come some unguarded moment when his mask will fall. I'll do his bidding, oh, yes, my hands riding his desk. He'll know what it is to have an outraged mother spying at his side!"

"S-sh-h, dearie! Some one will hear. You're overwrought."

"There is something almost tigerish in mother love, isn't there, Mrs. Mason? That's how I feel sometimes, quite like a tigress. I wonder if you can understand the agony of it when my boys ask me about their father. 'Where's father?' 'Why does he stay so long?' 'When's he coming home?' And I have to look into their baby faces and lie to them. When they give me their morning kiss I lie to them. When they say their prayers I lie. I even let the little tots lie to God. And, oh, the questions they can ask! Of course I know that God, being God, will understand—that he alone can make allowances for a mother's love and lies, but the most miserable part of it is that soon these lies will be no good. Now I can deluge them by some trumped up story of travel and foreign lands, but soon at school they will be told, they will be taunted. Oh, the torture!"

Mrs. Mason, wishing to distract her attention from this tragic note, said:

"But their father, tell me a little about him. I know, however unjustly he may be suffering at present, that he is in reality a strong, forceful man, a man who can do big things. I always knew my little Anna would marry a man like that."

There was a slight pathetic uplifting of the lovely eyebrows, then an indescribably delicate smile, with just the faintest hint of sadness, as Anna Granger slowly shook her head.

"No, Bobs isn't that kind at all," she said. "He's of the gentle, sweet, appealing sort, not forceful, and he'll never do big things, but there are other qualities which can make up for forcefulness, don't you think? And he's clever. He was advanced rapidly in the Gotham Trust company. Only—sometimes when I'm very tired and spent—I long for the lion strength. It's dreadful for a woman as young as I am to feel so utterly weary."

She walked unthinkingly over to the big bay window. There beyond the blue flowing Hudson the grim prison walls smote her vision.

"Oh, what was I saying!" she cried, with a little penitent sob. "I feel like a traitor to Robert. Poor, dear boy, suffering up there for another's crime. He may have his—his weaknesses and failings—which of us has not? But at least he's not the sort ever to be guilty of theft, and he's just the best father and husband in the world. Forget what I said, Mrs. Mason. You will, won't you?"

"To be sure, dearie—to be sure. I think you're a noble woman, Anna—a model wife. And what's better, a brave mother." She studied quietly with herself for a few seconds, while Anna gathered her poise. Possibly providence had decreed that she remain under this uncongenial roof for the sole purpose of watching over this poor, motherless girl. Then:

"You see, dear, when you came I had just decided it was my duty to leave Mr. Temple. Now I am going to stay and help you in your brave endeavor. I'll stay at least till his mother gets back. She's abroad now, and held—coming in and out of the Exchange building. I never knew who he was, but there was a something about him, a set of the jaw, a swing of the shoulders, all integrity and force—something that stamped him to me as vital and eager, a prince among men. He carried his head up, his chin forward. He seemed to be cleaving his way manfully through life. He was the fairy prince of my girlish dreams. Oh, I wish—I wish it hadn't been he! There was a very childish tremble in the brave mouth, but she went on:

"Amid all the incriminating mad they cast at the big successful men of the day I've always clasped this man's picture to my heart, saying, 'Here's one at least who is fine and straight and big.'"

There was an unutterable, dumb loneliness in the young face, a forlorn lingering of the fingers, as unconsciously she touched the discarded picture once again. One has seen a woman look just in the same way as she has touched the clothes of her little dead child.

"And now, instead of being fine and straight and big, he's unprincipled and scheming and vicious, like all the rest. Bang goes another ideal, Mrs. Mason. He's the man who has branded the father of my boys as a thief."

"S-sh!" cried Mrs. Mason warningly again. There were heavy strides coming down the corridor. The door of the library opened abruptly. Anna Granger had just time to collect herself as the president of the Gotham entered, followed by Cato, his huge mastiff.

"You'll have to jump right in and take up the work where my secretary left off, Miss Dale," said he after the few preliminaries of courtesy had been exchanged. "I shall give you," waving his hand vaguely, "the keys to the city. There are no limitations. You will receive my mail and open it. He paused for a second. "No; there is one source of communication I wish to remain private. Anything coming to me from the New York detective bureau you will kindly hand to me unopened."

"Precisely, Mr. Temple," agreed the new secretary without the quiver of an eyelash. The president of the Gotham Trust company continued:

"From now on I shall have an unusual amount of exacting business in connection with this Granger case. You may have heard of it?"

"Yes," assented she, unbuttoning her glove.

"Another thing, Miss Dale—a large portion of the time I shall require you to be up here. There are some days, of course, when you will be free to go to your own home, but practically I shall want you to live in this house. My mother is abroad just now. I'm sorry Mrs. Mason will make you comfortable in her absence, I trust, and now she will show you to your room. Come down again when you've settled yourself if you are not too tired. There's plenty of work waiting. I see."

He turned to his much littered desk as his housekeeper conducted Anna to her room, and Cato settled down before the fireplace.

HER FRIEND'S
GOOD ADVICE

The Results Made This Newburg Lady Glad She Followed Suggestion.

Newburg, Ala.—"For more than a year," writes Myrtle Cothrum, of this place, "I suffered with terrible pains in my back and head. I had a sallow complexion, and my face was covered with pimples. Our family doctor only gave me temporary relief.

A friend of mine advised me to try Cardui, so I began taking it, at once, and with the best results, for I was cured after taking two bottles. My mother and my aunt have also used Cardui and were greatly benefited.

I shall always praise Cardui to sick and suffering women."

Cardui is a purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, tonic remedy for women, and will benefit young and old.

Its ingredients are mild herbs, having a gentle, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution.

Cardui has helped a million women back to health and strength.

Have you tried it? If not, please do. It may be just what you need.

Mrs. Arthur Leet and her niece, Miss Mabel Anderson, of Crab Orchard, Neb., spent Friday in Maryville at the street fair. They returned to their home Saturday morning.

Is the World Growing Better?

Many things go to prove that it is. The way thousands are trying to help others is proof. Among them is Mrs. W. W. Gould of Pittsfield, N. H. Finding good health by taking Electric Bitters, she now advises other sufferers, everywhere, to take them. "For years I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," she writes. "Every medicine I used failed till I took Electric Bitters. But this great remedy helped me wonderfully." They'll help any woman. They're the best tonic and finest liver and kidney remedy that's made. Try them. You'll see. 50c at the Orear-Henry Drug Co.

"It isn't that." She laughed bitterly, the sort of laugh which had first visited her lips a year ago among the honeysuckle vines. "It's another ideal smashed, that's all. Mrs. Mason, do you know," she tapped the likeness contemptuously. "I used to pass this man nearly every day when I was in Forbes' office—that was the first and only stenographer's position I ever Jollyng the Parents.

"Why did you chuck that baby under the chin?" asked the man. "It is such an ugly little sinner."

"That's why I chucked him," said the woman. "I always pet the ugly babies. Pretty babies get so much coddling from strangers that their parents take it as a matter of course. It is the fathers and mothers of homey babies who appreciate attention. Didn't you notice how pleased that couple looked? I don't suppose any body ever petted their baby before except themselves. They'll think a lot more of the youngster after this."

Cigar Stumps.

Gather the cigar stumps about the house and place them in a can until enough are accumulated. Soak them in tepid water a day, sprinkle this on plants. It prevents worms and bugs infesting them. Take the wet tobacco and sprinkle over the carpet and sweep well. This takes up dust and keeps away moths. Also crumble stumps fine and put them in hen nests to keep away chicken lice, instead of buying tobacco stems for the same purpose.

Indianapolis Mayor's Municipal Market Popular.

Indianapolis, Oct. 14.—Mayor Shank is preparing to continue his war on the "potato trust," if he has to send five hundred miles to get his supplies for the local market. The mayor announced that he could obtain all the potatoes he desired in Minnesota at prices that would permit him to continue retelling them here at 75 cents a bushel.

The mayor expects to receive two additional carloads that he bought at 68 cents a bushel laid down here.

Other cities are beginning to pattern after Indianapolis in the matter of the municipal commission house. Mayor Shank got two letters recently from mayors of other cities asking for advice on the project. Especially were the officials anxious to know from whom the mayor purchased his potatoes.

J. B. White, mayor of Williamsburg, Ky., is the first applicant for admission to the low cost of living society, but W. C. Luth of Sulphur, Ok., is a close second.

Mayor Shank's potato business began the last part of September, after commission men of Indianapolis had practically obtained a monopoly on the potato trade there. For some time potatoes had been selling at 60 and 70 cents a peck and the municipal authorities were unable to force the commission men to lower their price. Then Mayor Shank got his idea.

By going straight to the farmers he was able to buy potatoes as low as 69 cents a bushel. He bought two carloads. They were hauled to the public market place and the mayor and his assistants began selling them. They sold at 10 cents a half peck, 20 cents a peck, or 75 cents a bushel, the bushel price being only six cents higher than the original purchasing price.

But that did not force the commission men and retailers to lower their prices. And so, October 6, the mayor bought another carload, which he sold as before, the original price plus enough to pay for the handling and shipping.

Since then Mayor Shank has received many inquiries regarding his work in reducing prices—for they have been reduced a bit by his action. R. H. Campbell of Dallas, Tex., a district organizer for the American Federation of Labor was one who sent inquiries.

OKLAHOMA COUNTY WAR ENDS

Swanson County Drops Fight for Existence After Long Struggle.

Lawton, Ok., Oct. 14.—Swanson county will drop its fight for existence. Formed from parts of Kiowa and Comanche counties, illegally so, according to the Oklahoma supreme court, but defiant until the federal court refused to grant an injunction interfering with its dissolution. The refusal blasted its last hope and Sheriff W. H. Brashears and three of his deputies who are wanted in Comanche county for murder, telephoned Sheriff Nix that he and his men would come to Lawton Monday morning and surrender. For three months following the dissolution order they have delayed arrest. Four times warrants were served but the whole town of Mountain Park armed and threatened war and force was not used.

College Men for Farms.

Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 14.—Dr. Wilbur N. Mason, the new president of Baker university spoke before the students of the University of Kansas in the chapel on the "Debt of the College Man." "Some men feel that they are only fit for a position in the city when they leave school, but this is a mistake," he said. "Every man who has a college education can plow better and harvest better for having had that training."

Wichita Grew the Fastest.

Topeka, Oct. 14.—Kansas has grown mightily in population, according to the percentage figures of the United States census just received. The following shows the percentage of increase in population in the six largest cities of the state: Wichita, 112.6; Hutchinson, 74.5; Kansas City, 66.1; Topeka, 39; Leavenworth, 6.6; Atchison, 4.5.

JOHN W. GATES AND THE CAB

Little Gambling Episode in Which "Watch-Me" Was Able to Say "You Lose" Three Times.

A Gates anecdote that never got so far as it deserved, if it was true, was about his riding down town from a New York hotel in a cab with a stock market friend.

"I'll match you," said John Watch-me, "to see whether you or I buy this horse and cab from the driver, if it's his."

It was cabby's, so they matched, and John Watch-me had the satisfaction of saying, "You lose." The bargain struck, John Watch-me had another proposition to offer the new owner.

"Now I'll match you," he said, "to see whether you keep the outfit or whether you sell it back to cabby at his own price." And once more John Watch-me said, "You lose."

Here it dawned upon Gates' companion that in the last match John Watch-me had stood no chance to lose, whichever way it went, and he made remarks.

"All right," said John Watch-me, "I'll match you to see whether you or I stand the difference between the buying and the selling price." For what he had just sold cabby would only give a buying price that was just $100 less. This was the stake in the last match, and for the third time John Watch-me was able to say, "You lose."

TWO MULES WITH HISTORY

The Only Hybrids in the Geographical Service Are Sent to Kauai.

Two mules with a history were shipped down to W. B. Hardy on the Island of Kauai recently. He is carrying on the work of the geographical and water research branch of the department there, and it was found that animal transportation was the only way to meet the difficulties.

There were only two mules in that branch of the service and they were over in California. Likewise Hardy was the man who worked them over there when he was on the mainland. Now he and his friends will be reunited on Kauai.

The work of the department on that island is arduous owing to the fact that where the water runs are not always roads. Accordingly, some means have to be found by which the investigator could get about. He has a saddle and pack and can ride the mules as far as he can get them over the tracks, and then do the rest of the work on foot. The work necessitates constant traveling of a rough sort.—Honolulu Bulletin.

Not a Cheap Building.

It has been estimated that to rebuild the pyramid of Cheops under modern conditions an expenditure of $100,000,000 would be necessary and the labor of 40,000 men for two years required.

It has been calculated that the work really required the services of 100,000 men for thirty years.

The pyramid occupies a space of twelve and three-quarters acres, is 746 feet high and contains about 143,315,000 cubic yards of stone and granite.

The material alone represents an item of $36,000,000, while the labor would increase this amount to $72,000,000. To this must be added $3,000,000 for tools, transportation, and similar items.

The pyramid is built on a solid rock 150 feet deep, and to build a foundation of this character would add to the cost to the extent of making the total of $100,000,000.—Scientific American.

When Sleeping.

It is well to sleep from infancy with the head uncovered, as the hair thus retains its beauty longer. On retiring the hair should be raised high above the ears, without pulling, plaited loosely in a single braid and tied with a silk or cotton ribbon. Avoid wearing starched nightcaps, as the starch is injurious to the hair. When old age approaches it may be well to wear nightcaps.

Brush the hair well, using a soft brush, on going to bed and in the morning. The best brushes are made with short bristles. If the hair is combed from the roots downward without being divided in several parts, much harm may be done to it. The hairs would certainly be broken off, become uneven and could never be made to look cared for. It is an excellent thing to smooth the hair with the hands.

Cats Drive Off Snakes.

For many years I have been running a cattle station in Queensland, where snakes are tolerably numerous. At the head station we have always kept up a standing army of from 15 to 20 cats and have been practically free from the presence of snakes about the building and yards.

That this was owing to the presence of our cats I have no doubt whatever. They were always on the lookout, and I have often seen members of our feline body guard growing over dead or dying snakes and have more than once witnessed savage encounters between them and their victims. On the other hand, martyrs to their duty were from time to time found dead in the morning with all the evidence of a fight and their defeat in the shape of a snakebite on their bodies.—Spectator.
